IRISH HIGH CROSS

Replica of the Most Perfect and Oldest Specimen Now in Existence.

Stands in the Barony of Ferrard, Four Miles North of Drogheda.

Fine Reproduction of McKinley Cottage in County Antrim.

HANGED FOR LOYALTY TO IRELAND

In the front of the great reproduction of Cormac's chapel at Cashel in the grounds of the Irish exhibition at the World's Fair stands an immense Celtic cross, conspicuous not merely for its great size, but for the elaborate style of its ornamentation as well. It is a replica made by order of the Department of Agriculture and Technical Irish for Ireland of the great high cross of Monasterboice, the most perfect and oldest perhaps of all the perfect specimens of the ancient high cross now in existence. Monasterboice is situated in the Barony of Ferrard, County Louth, about four miles north of Drogheda. Its Irish name is Mainistir Buite, i. e., the Monastery of Buite, or Boetius, a Bishop who lived about the end of the fifth century. His festival was celebrated on December 7, according to the Felire of Oengus: "The feast of white, victorious Buite Of treasured Monaster(boice)."

"Monasterboice," says a commentator in the Leabhar Breac, "is the monastery, lasting, settled, of Buite, whose name is interpreted as 'living to God,' and also 'fire,' for a star made manifest his birth, as happened at the birth of Christ." The term high cross, by which this type of monument is distinguished, is taken from the annals of the Four Masters, where the cross of Clonmacnoise is mentioned. From all that can be learned on the subject these high crosses were not intended as sepulchral monuments, but were set up to make the boundary of the sanctuary.

There are forty-five high crosses still remaining in Ireland, all of them in a more or less perfect state of preservation. Thirty-two of them are richly ornamented, eight of which bear inscriptions wherein the names of the following persons have been identified: King Flann, Abbot of Clonmacnoise, 904; Muiredach, Abbot of Monasterboice, 942; King Turlough O'Connor, 1106; Aedh Oissen, Abbot of Cong, 1161; Gillchrist O'Tuathail, 1161; O'Dubhthaigh (O'Duffy), 1150. Miss Margaret Stokes, in her "Early Christian Art in Ireland," states that while the earliest of these monuments does not date back further than the beginning of the tenth century, still they were all made before the end of the thirteenth century. I have never been able to find anything to support this belief. On the contrary, these high crosses never having been designed to mark the burial places of distinguished persons, it is quite reasonable to suppose they were set up during the lifetime of the people mentioned in the inscriptions. Thus King Flann and Colman both died in 904. Therefore it is reasonable to suppose that their crosses were erected long before that date, probably some time toward the close of the ninth century. Many of the crosses bearing no inscription are fully as old as these, perhaps older. That none were made after the close of the twelfth century is not to be wondered at, considering the state of disorder into which the country was plunged by the invasion of the Norman English.

The particular form of the Irish crosses, the most beautiful type of the Christian emblem in art, has been variously explained. An ancient Pagan symbol consisting of a circle containing a cross and connected with the old religion of sun worship, is found in some prehistoric Irish monuments, as at Newgrange on the Boyne, and it is supposed that this may have been adopted for its artistic value. Another explanation is that the Irish cross is a form of the Greek (in which a circle also appears), with the shaft elongated and the arms projecting outside the circle, and this, Miss Stokes observes, "seems symbolic of the whole subject of Irish ecclesiastical art, which, from its very beginning, shows Byzantine and Latin elements commingled."

The high cross of Monasterboice was carved and erected during the incumbency of Muiredach as Abbot of Monasterboice, whose death is thus recorded in the Annals of Ulster: "A. D. 938, Muiredach, son of Donnall, abbot of Monasterboice, and chief steward of the southern Hy Neill and successor of Buite, the son of Branch, head of the council of all the men of Bregia, laity and clergy, departed this life on the 5th day of the calends of December." The death of this Muiredach is similarly entered in the Annals of the Four Masters, except that there he is called "the Steward of the people of Patrick (Armagh), from Slieve Fush to Leinster."

The ornamentation of the Monasterboice cross is divided into twenty-four panels. On some of the latter the subjects are unintelligible, but many of them have been identified. These treat of the crucifixion, the sacrifice of Isaac, the empty tomb guarded by sleeping soldiers, the descent into hell, the fall of Adam, the slaying of Abel, the adoration of the Magi, Samson with the lion and the bear, David and Goliath and Christ in glory. On the side panels are many elaborate designs of the interlacing pattern and on the base may also be found the same type of ornamentation.

Another interesting reproduction is that of the McKinley cottage, standing near the main gate. The original is in Dervock, County Antrim, and is known as the home of the great-grandfather of the late President McKinley. The McKinleys, or as they spelled the name in the early days, McKinlay, were originally settlers from Scotland in Ulster, whither they were attracted by the linen industry. They won some reputation in the eighteenth century by their efforts to develop and exploit the linen manufacture. Like most of their party they became warmly attached to their adopted country, and when the rebellion of 1798 broke out England found in the sturdy Presbyterian stock of the North some of her bitterest and most implacable enemies. Francis McKinlay was no exception to the rule. He was a splendid drill master and soon distinguished himself by his activity in training the young patriots of Dervock in the use of arms. The knowledge of this fact was not long in reaching the ears of the authorities, and one night the McKinlay cottage was surrounded by yeomanry, who battered down the door and dragged Francis McKinlay from his bed. The house was burned and McKinlay hanged to a tree in front of the neighboring church. All day long the body swung in the breeze, nobody daring to cut it down, but as night fell several daring spirits took the body down and buried it in the churchyard. Much of the original furniture has been brought over for this cottage, and its antique appearance and rude style attract much attention from the visitors.

WEDDING BELLS

Ring Out Joyously and Young People Flight Their Troth.

One of the most elaborate weddings ever witnessed in St. Louis Bertrand's church was the marriage last Wednesday morning of Miss Anna Regina Kelly and Eugene Henchey. Seldom has a wedding occurred under happier auspices, and when the wedding march pealed forth and Very Rev. Father Volz, O. P., in the rich robes of his office came forward to unite the happy couple in the holy bonds of matrimony before the magnificent altar, with its handsome decorations and brilliant illumination, the church was thronged with friends of the bride and groom. The bride, who is the niece of Judge Matt O'Doherty, was attired in a lovely costume and looked beautiful, and her sister, Miss Josephine Kelly, was a charming bridesmaid. James W. Green, of Little Rock, who will become a groom next Monday, was best man, and Hon. Augustus J. Bizot, J. J. Kavanagh, Thomas Nugent and William Kimmons, of Madisonville, Ind., were the ushers. During the nuptial mass a splendid musical programme was rendered under the direction of Prof. Himmersbach, a large choir assisting and solos being rendered by Messrs. Fred Mansfield and Charles Siersdorfer. Following the church ceremony there was a bounteous wedding breakfast at the home of Judge O'Doherty, after which the newly wedded pair left on an extended honeymoon trip to Chicago and St. Louis. They will return November 15 and then be at home to their friends at 23 St. Charles' Place. Hosts of friends congratulate Mr. Henchey on winning so charming a bride, and all unite in wishing them a long and happy married life.

SCALDS WERE FATAL.

William Blasius Suffered a Horrible Death Last Monday.

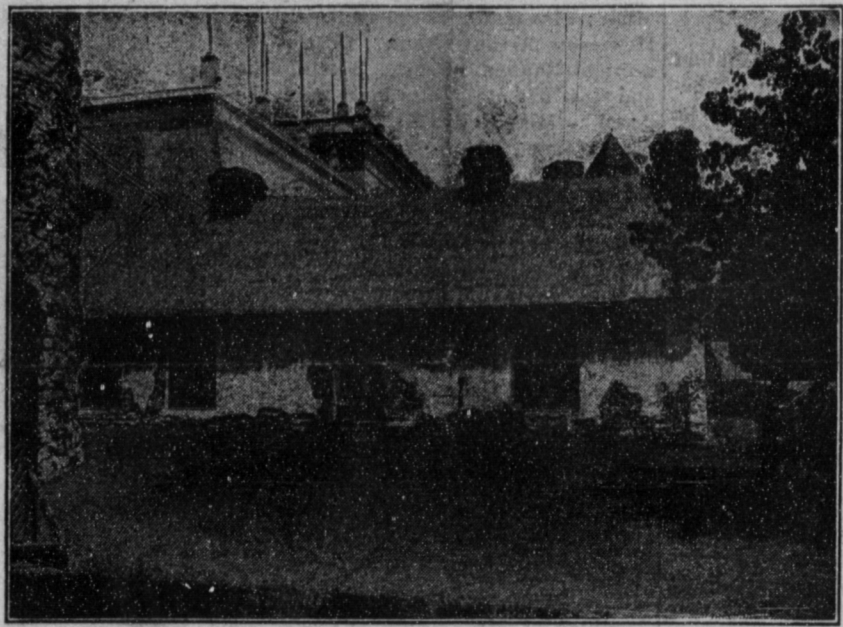

Last Monday afternoon William Blasius, a boilermaker in the service of the Monon railroad at New Albany, was scalded so badly by steam and hot water while repairing the flue of a locomotive in the repair shops in that city that he died early the next morning, after the most horrible suffering. He was working in the fire-box when the accident happened, and when he was pulled out he was so badly burned that the flesh clung to his clothes when they were removed. Blasius had been in the employ of the Monon for twenty years and was one of its best men. He was forty-two years old and leaves a wife and child, for whom there is felt the most sincere sympathy. He was a devout and consistent member of Holy Trinity church and a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Young Men's Institute and other fraternal societies. The funeral took place Thursday morning and was largely attended.

ROSE FLANNIGAN WINS.

Little Miss Rose May Flannigan was the holder of the lucky number that won the piano at the drawing held Wednesday night at the rooms of Satolli Council, Y. M. I. She resides with her parents on Sixth street, near Broadway, and her friends have been visiting her in large numbers to see the prize and congratulate her on her good fortune. Will McDonough, of the Ballard & Ballard Flour Company, held the next ticket.

CORMAC'S CHAPEL AND MONASTERBOICE HIGH CROSS.

McKINLEY COTTAGE IN COUNTY ANTRIM.

DEMOCRATS

Have An Excellent Ticket in Louisville and Jefferson County.

Congressman and Judge of the Circuit Court the Most Important Offices.

Good Men Named For School Trustees and the Minor Places.

ELECTION ON NEXT TUESDAY WEEK

The people of Louisville and Jefferson county will be called upon to vote for President and Vice President next Tuesday week. The issues are about made up and most people have made up their minds how they shall cast their ballots. In the Presidential contest the Parker and Davis elector in this district ought to receive the largest majority for several years, inasmuch as the gold and silver wings of the party are once more united, and there seems to be no discord among the party leaders.

The local ticket to be voted for this year is not a large one. In November, 1905, a Mayor and city officers and many county officers are to be voted for. The ticket this year includes a Congressman, Judge of the Circuit Court, Common Pleas division No. 3; a County Attorney, a Magistrate for the Sixth district and seven School Trustees. The Democratic nominees for Trustees in the seven legislative districts are Edward W. Wolff, John Hoertz, Dr. E. J. Buechel, Dr. Bruce Lentz, James Norton, S. C. Moore, A. H. Brachey.

John Hoertz, James Norton, Dr. Bruce Lentz and A. H. Brachey have served long in the School Board and their records are good. The other three nominees are also excellent men. It is important to get good men in the School Board, and the Democratic nominees fill the bill.

Edward C. Meglery is making the race for Magistrate to fill a vacancy caused by the death of his father, who long held that position. He is well qualified for the place. Robert Worth Bingham is running for County Attorney to fill out the unexpired term of Samuel Kirby, elected Judge of the Circuit Court, Chancery division.

The Hon. Matt O'Doherty is making the race for Judge of the Circuit Court, Common Pleas division No. 3, to fill out the unexpired term of the lamented Judge Upton W. Muir. He is now filling the position by appointment of the Governor. Judge O'Doherty is eminently qualified for the position, and the voters will make no mistake in giving him their earnest support. He is an upright and capable lawyer and just Judge.

Congressman Sherley is deserving of a second term. He has made a capable Congressman and will do even better during his second term, as he will have the additional experience. The Democrats of Louisville have altogether a ticket which they can support without any misgivings.

WENT TO REST.

Heart Failure Claims Mrs. John Ahern For Its Victim.

Mrs. Sarah Ahern, beloved wife of John Ahern, died suddenly on Friday night of last week at the family residence, 651 East Main street, after an illness of but a few hours, and the news of her death of heart disease was a great shock to her relatives and all who knew her. Mrs. Ahern was truly one of the very best of women, as was attested by the large outpouring of friends at the funeral and the eloquent tribute to her memory which was delivered at St. John's church during the funeral services. When the reverend father said she was the very soul of womanhood, a real devoted Catholic wife and mother and a true friend many were moved to tears, but she had been called to her eternal reward, there to remain for all eternity, and it is to be hoped and prayed for that she will enjoy everlasting happiness in the realms of peace. Mrs. Ahern left a comfortable and happy home, a host of friends, and above all a loving husband in the fullest sense of the word, and four children, who are Maggie, James, John and William Ahern. The remains were tenderly laid to rest in St. Louis cemetery, the grave being covered with floral offerings.

PETER'S PENCE.

Americans Will Be Urged to Be More Liberal This Year Than Last.

The Diminished Revenue From France Necessitates Appeal For More Money.

Running Expenses of the Vatican Heavier Than For Some Time.

SATOLLI COLLECTED SOME MONEY

The Vatican has sent instructions to all the Bishops in the United States to urge the faithful of their dioceses to be more generous toward the annual collections taken up in all the churches as an offering to the Pope. The extraordinary expenses of a first year of pontificate and the greatly diminished revenue from the French churches have caused this step. Already assurances have been received that this year's collection from the United States will greatly exceed the amount sent to Rome in previous years, says a cablegram from Rome.

The economies introduced in the Vatican administration by the present Pope are still practiced, but the interest from invested capital constituting the general fund of the Holy See is hardly sufficient to pay the running expenses of the apostolic palaces and salaries of Cardinals and Nuncios. The general fund when Pius X. was installed amounted to nearly $10,000,000, invested in gilt-edged securities bearing an average interest of half a million dollars. During this first year of his pontificate Pius X. has found that expenses have largely exceeded $1,000,000 and he is uneasy, not wishing to encroach upon the capital invested. Then there is the question of providing for contingencies like the recent one of the Bishops of Laval and Dijon, to whom the Pope has assigned an annual pension of $1,000. Hardly any hope is entertained that matters in France will improve soon, and provision is therefore to be made for other Bishops and clergy whose salaries may be stopped by the Government. So the Pope has started a contingent fund, which now amounts to $800,000. Nearly half of this was collected by Cardinal Satolli during his recent trip to the United States. The balance came principally from the offerings made by pilgrimages, notably from the Society of St. Sillon, of which nearly every Catholic in France is a member.

Cardinal Mocenni, the administrator of the Holy See, assures the Pope that the expenses of the current year will not be as large of those of last year, because there will not be the expense of the conclave, of pensioning its members, of coronation and the late Pope's funeral. Consequently the running expenses next year will be under a million dollars unless something extraordinary happens. It is thought that with an increased annual contribution from the Catholics of the United States and England it will be possible for Pius X. to pay all running expenses without making any inroads upon the invested capital.

The many contributions sent to the Pope from America through Cardinal Satolli during his recent visit and the glowing account he has given to Pius X. of the generosity of American Catholics have greatly encouraged the Pope in the belief that the church in America is destined to take the place of the French church in providing for the financial needs, not only of the Holy See, but of every other portion of the church which may find itself in financial distress in the future.

MOURN HIS DEATH.

Charles Score Passes Away After Suffering Long Illness.

The many friends of Charles Score were grieved to learn of his demise, which occurred last Saturday night at the home of his father, John Score, Seventh street, after a painful illness of ten months, during which he bore his sufferings with a Christian fortitude and patience that was remarkable. Young Score was born in this city, and after graduating from St. Xavier's College he secured a responsible position in the offices of the L. & N., where his faithful services were recognized, and it was the opinion of his fellow associates that few had as bright prospects for the future. Ten months ago he was stricken with what was thought to be rheumatism, and he went to Martinsville, Ind., in hopes of regaining his health. This availed him nothing and he returned home. His condition slowly grew worse till Saturday, when having received the last rites of the church and surrounded by his father, brother and five sisters his death came peacefully. Charles Score was of a pleasant and cheery disposition and was held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends both here and elsewhere. The funeral took place Tuesday morning from the Dominican church, where he attended mass from his boyhood. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated and the Rev. Father Lawler preached the funeral sermon, in which he extolled the virtues of the deceased and in a feeling manner appealed to all to be as well prepared for the final summons. For the bereaved father and brother and sisters there were many floral and other testimonials of sympathy.

MACKIN COUNCIL

Invites Supreme President Fogarty to Opening of New Club House.

Mackin Council, Y. M. I., at its meeting Tuesday night instructed President James Shelley and Secretary Frank Burke to send a formal invitation to Supreme President William Fogarty, of Indianapolis, to be present at the opening of the new club house and hall on November 17, which will be followed by a three days' bazar. The Joint Committee of the three local councils will join in the invitation and members of the order will give a dinner in honor of the distinguished visitor during his stay.

President Shelley and Secretary Dan Weber made some excellent suggestions regarding methods to reach delinquents, who will be dropped from the roll if they do not pay up Tuesday night, when there will be another initiation. Dan Weber reported everything now ready for the Thanksgiving eve ball, which will bring together a large assemblage of friends of Mackin Council.

Chairman Kerberg announced that the finishing touches would soon be put on the hall, and the Ways and Means Committee felt encouraged over prospects for the bazar. Its success now depends upon the members alone. Special committees were named to visit Trinity, Satolli and Unity Councils and invite them to the opening of the bazar.

There are none on the sick list now, therefore if all those in arrears and all others would pay dues to the first of the year a surprisingly large sum would be on hand to liquidate the debts incurred in furnishing the new home for Mackin.

VISITING EASTERN BRANCHES.

Albert F. Martin, State Secretary of the Catholic Knights of America and also law agent for the Louisville & Nashville railroad, left last Saturday to spend two weeks in New York City. While in the East he will visit a number of branches of the C. K. of A.

APPEAL

For Voters to Cast Their Ballots For Sewerage Bonds.

Movement is Non-Political and Will Make Property Valuable.

More Sewers Are Necessary to Protect Citizens From Disease.

WORK FOR MANY LABORING MEN

The most important question before the people of Louisville at this time is the bond issue, to be voted upon at the coming election, which will provide means for the erection of sewers that are an imperative need, and without which the future health and prosperity of the city of Louisville will be greatly imperiled. Two years ago the bond issue was thought to have been carried and there was great rejoicing among the progressive element and the workmen of the city, but because of some technical quibbling the matter was brought into the courts and there defeated. From the first this paper has advocated the issue of bonds for the construction of sewers, and it again urges every citizen to cast his vote therefor on election day.

For twenty-five years the building of sewers for this growing city has been neglected, with the result that numerous large capitalists have refused to invest their money here, many large factories that would have given employment to thousands would not locate in Louisville, and the growth of the city has been correspondingly retarded. But more important than all this is the health of our people, which has been and is now threatened in many sections, and which can only be preserved by the construction of a complete and better sewerage system.

This year the people seem to be aroused and it will be surprising if nearly all the voters do not support this issue of bonds. With this question settled the city government may next year begin work of improvement. Today almost the entire city of Louisville south of Broadway is without adequate sewerage, as is also the major portion of the West End. And the wonder is that there should be found a single household or lot owner in those sections who does not want the locality in which he resides brought up to the same sanitary standard that prevails north of Broadway. The talk of a heavy tax on the cottage or home of the workman is all tommy rot. They helped to build sewers for others, and it is now time for those others to build sewers for them. The most strenuous opponents of the measure are those who are already provided for, who do not care for the growth of the city or the health of its inhabitants outside of their own immediate neighborhood.

Speaking to a reporter on this subject John J. Malone, recognized as one of our most reliable and substantial citizens, had this to say: "I regard the proposed issuance of bonds as a public necessity. We are confronted by a condition which must be met. It will be the greatest thing that has been done for Louisville for years and will be of inestimable value to the whole people. Aside from the sanitary viewpoint, the proposition is one which I do not see how people can get away from."

Spalding Coleman, another prominent and influential citizen who feels a deep interest in the present and future welfare of the city, gave emphatic utterance to the following: "Louisville needs the sewers. I am strong for the bond issue, and if the money is properly expended, as it doubtless will be, I am of the opinion that the improvement will be the best thing that could be done for Louisville."

Voters should remember that Louisville has an established reputation of commercial and manufacturing importance, and when she invites foreign capital to locate and invest she finds that lack of proper sewerage is the main obstacle to overcome. Factories should be given the attention in this respect which they deserve and be provided with sewers by the city. Then will ensue steady employment for labor. There will be less idleness and suffering, and splendid opportunity will be afforded the generation of boys now in school for advancement in the mechanical and industrial arts that will follow the needed improvements advocated.

And to the small home owners it may be truthfully said the value of their little holdings will never materially increase until they are protected by a proper system of sewerage. They should not forget that to longer delay the beginning of this work will greatly add to its cost. Ten years from now the expense of constructing the sewers contemplated would be double the amount involved in the proposed bond issue.

This is not a question of party or politics, but one which involves the future of our beautiful city, and in this light and in view of the foregoing facts the Kentucky Irish American feels it a duty to urge all good citizens to work and vote for the bond issue and carry it by the largest majority ever given at an election in Louisville.

ELECTION NOT FAR OFF.

The Presidential election is now only about ten days off. It will occur November 8, next Tuesday week. It should be the desire and is the duty of every good citizen to vote. The Presidential campaign which is now about to close has been the quietest one in the history of the country. The only stir made in this section and in Southern Indiana so far has been made by the whirlwind tour of William Jennings Bryan. Everywhere that Bryan has gone during this campaign the people have turned out in great numbers to hear him. No other public speaker has been able to attract much attention, with the possible exception of Congressman Bourke Cockran, who has been touring Northern Indiana this week in a special car.

What this quiet campaign means is a puzzle to the politicians. Each side claims that the silence means something to their advantage. It is conceded that the contests in Indiana and New York will be close and until the votes are counted no one can tell the result. Something might turn up in a day or night to change the whole situation.

Here in Kentucky no one doubts the election of the majority of the Democratic nominees and the return to Congress of the usual number of Democrats. In the Louisville district Mr. Sherley has the solid support of his party and of course will be returned to Congress. Judge Matt O'Doherty's friends are alert and he will doubtless receive a large majority for Circuit Judge, as he deserves. Judge O'Doherty will continue to be an honor and a credit to the bench and the people should re-elect him.

SETTLE PUBLIC DOMAIN.

George H. Maxwell, editor of Maxwell's Talisman, a monthly publication printed in Chicago, is conducting a campaign in favor of training men to make a living straight from mother earth. He believes, like many others, that the public domain should be settled and developed as a cure for social unrest. In a recent address to the Commercial Travelers' Association, assembled in Springfield, Ill., Mr. Maxwell said:

"Now suppose that you could take the men who are out of employment in the United States today and send them down there to Louisiana. Instead of building irrigation works to water the deserts, start them to building extensive reclamation works such as the Dutch Government is now building in Holland to reclaim lands submerged by a great inland sea; give them employment first in the work of reclaiming the lands and then give every man, as soon as the land is ready for occupation, a chance to get a small piece of land and earn his living from it by farming it with his own labor."

Mr. Maxwell calls attention to the fact that Montana, with an area as large as Indiana, Illinois and Ohio combined, has only a population of 250,000, while it is capable of supporting 9,000,000 people. He suggests irrigation on a large scale and says 10,000,000 acres of land in the State of Montana alone could be reclaimed through irrigation. What could be done in Montana could be duplicated in many other sections of the West. Instead of spending millions on the Philippines Mr. Maxwell would spend this public money at home. By the reclamation of Western lands many thousands would be able to own their own farms and be independent citizens instead of crowding into the cities. On the subject of the study of agriculture in the schools he says:

"The school days are being divided into periods for books and periods for outdoor work, and as a consequence an improvement in the health of the children is soon noticeable. In the larger cities the school garden movement is attracting much attention and growing in popular favor. The growing interest in agriculture everywhere portends a great movement of the people to turn 'back to the land,' which is the only absolutely safe and effective remedy for the social and industrial evils that threaten our country today."

The Kentucky Irish American has received several more communications on the Catholic Knights' rerating question, some long, some short, but all more or less personal. Their publication would benefit neither the writers nor the Catholic Knights, but would require more space than we can spare, and they will be therefore returned to the writers on demand. Heated newspaper controversy will not bring the members together, and would not aid in reaching a result that would prove satisfactory to all.

Halloween this year falls on Monday, which will give the youths good opportunity for their tricks and games. But the boys are cautioned not to injure property or do anything that would place them in the hands of the police. The better way to celebrate is by spending the evening in social gatherings within doors, which will after all furnish the greatest enjoyment.

The M. H. Wiltzins Company, of Milwaukee, publishers of the Catholic Directory and dealers in Catholic goods, captured the grand prize with their exhibit at the World's Fair. They were also awarded one gold, one silver and three bronze medals. Their display of church goods was perhaps the most elaborate ever seen in this country.

WELL KNOWN HERE.

Father Burns has been stationed at Huntville, Ala., for several years, but will go from here to San Jose, Cal., where he will locate with St. Patrick's Seminary, a new college institution just established there. Father Burns is well remembered here, formerly working at the printer's trade in the Courier-Journal job office.

Luke Conneally, a wealthy Californian, arrived in the city the first of the week to claim his bride, and on Wednesday morning led to the altar at the Dominican church Miss Nora Hanley, a most estimable and charming young woman, who for a number of years resided with relatives in this city. After a wedding breakfast the bride and groom left for California, where they will in future reside.

Miss Nora Wales, of 2508 First street, entertained Sunday evening in honor of Miss Katie Delaney, of Hartford City, Ind. Those present were Misses Julia Kelly, Mamie Schneider, Hazel Kraft, Maud Hefflin, Anna Dooley and Adelaide Faust; Mrs. John Faust and Mrs. William

Better Goods at Lower Prices

HAS BEEN THE MOTTO OF THIS STORE FOR YEARS

And this has had the effect of filling all the smaller stores with a better grade of goods than what they carried before our advent into this city. To this big store is due the fact that Louisville is the best retail furniture market in the country for the consumer, with the Rhodes-Burford Co. leading as usual. All houses must come up to its standard of high quality and low prices as nearly as possible to seek other fields. It is the pioneer house of its kind in America, as well as the largest in the world; keep this fact in mind when you go to buy.

STURDY YOUNG SCION.

The accompanying cut is that of Shelley Bannon, the handsome and sturdy young scion of Patrick Bannon, Jr., who made his advent April 27, the anniversary of the birth of his worthy father.

Shelley is now six months old and holds full sway both in his own home and that of his venerable grandfather, Patrick Bannon, Sr. After a glance at the picture all will agree that he is a chip of the old block and gives promise of adding lustre to an old and honored name.

HALL WAS FULL.

Ostrader's Hall was full of gaiety and mirth Monday night and the young ladies of the Emerald Club had the pleasure of seeing their worthy efforts on the social side realized to their heart's content. The young women who compose the Emerald Club are themselves leaders in social gatherings and contributors to every social and patriotic Irish event, and they had young men friends there from every part of the city to testify to their appreciation of the many favors and obligations they were under to the members of the club. Among those present from other cities were Miss Katherine Delaney, of Hartford City, Ind.; William Heffernan, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Jerry Mullen and Michael McCormack, of Washington, and Miss Loretta Raff, of Paris, this State.

REHEARSING REGULARLY.

The recently organized Eichhorn-Kollros military band and chorus have been rehearsing regularly for the past four weeks for the grand concert to be given at Masonic Theater on Sunday evening, November 20. The progress made has been very satisfactory, and a most welcome surprise is in store for music lovers. Prof. Eichhorn conducts the band rehearsals, while Prof. Kollros directs the chorus. Among the soloists who will be heard are Mrs. Mamie Becker, soprano; Mrs. T. S. Swain, cornet, and Herr Charles A. Letzler, violin. Seats are now on sale, and those who would like to see a high class musical organization in Louisville should liberally support Prof. Eichhorn and Kollros in their laudable undertaking.

GLAD HE IS BACK.

The Catholics of Flemingsburg were greatly rejoiced last Sunday morning when they again had Rev. Joseph Flynn to sing the high mass for them in St. Charles' church. Father Flynn had just returned from his European trip, and during the preceding week a hearty "cead mille faille" was given him by the good people of that section.

HARRY COLGAN

Gives a Glowing Description of What He Saw in Colorado.

Harry Colgan, Kentucky's delegate to the Supreme Council of the Young Men's Institute, which held its convention at Colorado Springs, arrived home this week, having stopped over at the World's Fair. To his friends he gives a glowing description of what he saw in Colorado. He was greatly pleased with the work of the Supreme Council, which was in session three days. Before the election of officers Delegate Colgan was urged to make a race for the Supreme Presidency, but would not allow the use of his name. A new and improved ritual and a handsome button were adopted and both will be ready for distribution in a short time.

While in Colorado the Kentucky delegate visited nearly all the points of interest, including Cripple Creek, Victor and the gold mining centers. Visiting Colorado City, the delegates were entertained by the Knights of Columbus and Elks. While in Colorado Springs an old member of Alpha Council, George R. Pope, formed himself into an entertainment committee and was attentive to all, and in Denver Kent Pope, another old Louisville boy, showed the visitors the sights in that city.

HARLEM CLUB.

A New Social Club of Well Known Young Men Organized Recently.

A social club has been organized recently in the southern part of the city, which promises to make quite a bid for social honors. It is known as the Harlem Club and has handsomely furnished club rooms at the southeast corner of Seventh and Zane streets, where the club meets every Tuesday evening.

The officers of the club are Joseph P. Carey, President; John J. Dwan, Vice President; Cary B. Hines, Recording Secretary; John M. Hanrahan, Financial Secretary; John B. O'Connell, Treasurer; Joseph F. Sullivan, Sergeant-at-Arms. The Entertainment Committee, composed of Louis B. Dugan, Joseph T. Hanrahan, Sylvester Doyle, Edward Griel and Edward A. Crowley have been authorized to arrange for a dance to be given at the New Athletic Club on November 22.

BISHOPS WILL DECIDE

If Women Are to Be Allowed to Sing in American Choirs.

A cablegram to the Chicago Inter-Ocean says that while the action of Archbishop Farley, of New York, in removing women singers from his Cathedral choir is approved at the Vatican, it is understood here that because of representations made by some American Bishops Plux X. will not insist longer on the adoption of the sweeping reforms in church music proposed last year. It has been decided that hereafter music reforms in the American diocese, shall be left to the Bishops, who are in better position to know what is best for the interest of the church in their districts.

THE SECRET OUT.

Henry Diersen, the general head of the Diersen Brothers' common beer brewery, and widely known as "Uncle Hank," has of late been wearing the broad smile that won't come off and treating all his friends, but never making known the cause of his jubilation. It remains for the Kentucky Irish American to tell them he is the father of a fine boy, and it need not be surprising if his winter evenings are now spent at his own fireside with the new and welcome visitor, who entered the world weighing fourteen pounds.

INDIANAPOLIS CATHEDRAL.

Before leaving for Rome last week Bishop Francis Silas Chatard, of Indianapolis, ordered that a collection be taken up in all the Catholic churches of the diocese on Sunday, October 30, for the purpose of raising funds to build the new Cathedral at Indianapolis. The circular letter was read in the New Albany and Jeffersonville churches Sunday last and the collection will be taken up tomorrow. Bishop Chatard will remain in Rome until December 8.

SPECIAL MUSIC SUNDAY.

At St. Michael's church on Brook street at the high mass tomorrow morning there will be an elaborate musical programme. Messrs. Fred Mansfield and Harry Soete will be among the soloists and will be assisted by an enlarged choir. Rev. Father John Sheridan will be the celebrant of the mass and will preach the sermon.

EXPERT ELECTRICIAN.

Charles Wendling, who was formerly connected with the Cumberland Telephone Company, has entered the electrical business, with an office at 735 West St. Catherine street. Mr. Wendling is an expert electrician and is capable of doing all kinds of electrical construction and repairing.

SERIOUS.

The condition of Patrolman Lee Mullen, who is ill at his home on West Grayson street, is reported quite serious. Some weeks ago he was compelled to take to his bed, suffering with lung trouble. Officer Mullen is attached to the Seventh district, and is regarded as one of the most capable and fearless men on the force.

RECENT DEATHS.

Miss Mary McGrath died Tuesday night at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Hannah McGrath, 1219 Fifteenth street. She was a splendid young woman with fine traits of character, and the news of her death caused feelings of profound sorrow among her wide circle of friends and acquaintances. The funeral took place Friday morning from the Sacred Heart church, Rev. Father Walsh celebrating the solemn mass of requiem.

The remains of Miss Jennie Greenwell, who died Monday morning at the residence of her parents, 1706 Magazine street, were taken to New Haven, where the funeral services were held Tuesday. Miss Greenwell was twenty-three years old and was a native of Nelson county, where the news of her death was received with expressions of profound sorrow. Though not long a resident of this city she had by her amiable and pleasing manner won the esteem of a wide circle of acquaintances.

TWELVE VOTE AGAINST.

Henry G. Hoemer, State President of the Catholic Knights of America, in a letter to the Kentucky Irish American, says that returns received from branches in Kentucky show fourteen for and twelve against the injunction resolution adopted by the late State Council, and therefore no application for injunction will be made by the State officers.

MACAULEY'S.

At Macauley's next Wednesday and Thursday, Frederick Warde and Lou Kathryn Kidder will present "Salammbô," a spectacular drama which, it is said, compares favorably with "Cleopatra" and other Sardou plays which won favor several years ago because of their strong appeal to the emotions. The scenes are laid in Carthage and the period is 3,000 years ago. For the rest of the week and Saturday matinee Maude Adams in the "Little Minister" will be the attraction. Miss Adams will be supported by Arthur Byron and many members of the company that supported her for three successful seasons in this play.

MASONIC.

That the Hanlons are always up-to-date will be seen when the present season's version of "Superba" comes to the Masonic Theater next week. It will show Pierrot, the merry clown, disporting himself on the Pike at the World's Fair and playing all sorts of tricks upon the denizens of the Chinese and Japanese villages. The first act of the extravaganza will show Pierrot in the Latin Quarter of Paris, where he will be given an opportunity of displaying some of his tricks on the students and their models. The last act will take the clown back to his favorite corner of Superba's romantic realm.

HOPKINS' THEATER.

Dorothy Russell, the daughter of Lillian Russell, will head the bill at the Hopkins next week. Miss Russell is said to inherit both the beauty and talent of her mother. She sings and her vaudeville turn is reported to be a good one. Kelly and Violette, familiar to local playgoers as the "fashion plate duo," are among the others on the programme. Their act has always met with high favor here. Besides a number of other good turns to amuse the patrons there will be the biography, which has met with universal favor and is almost an entire show by itself.

BUCKINGHAM.

Specialties of a high order of merit and genuine enjoyment is promised patrons of the Buckingham next week, when Phil Sheridan's big vaudeville company of forty people will hold the boards. This is heralded as the greatest aggregation of comedians and burlesque stars ever presented at popular prices, presenting a high class show for the masses. There will be a number of new and interesting features introduced in the splendid olio between the burlesques.

ENCOURAGING

Report Received From the Euchre Committee of Division 4.

Division 4, of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, held its regular meeting Wednesday evening, with President John Hennessy in the chair and a good attendance of members. Joseph Monroe, Corporal John Riley and his son James Riley were reported on the sick list and Pat Stone and Mike Hartnett were reported disabled from accidents. The quarterly reports of Financial Secretary McGinn and Treasurer Hellen were read, showing the division to be in good condition.

Thomas Lynch and Frank McDonogh, of the Entertainment Committee, reported everything in readiness for the euchre to be given by Division 4 on Wednesday evening, November 9. A committee consisting of Will Connelly, Will Hennessy, Frank Burke, Harry Crotty and James McKiernan were appointed to visit the meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary next Wednesday and solicit their aid for the euchre. Will Connelly, Robert Mitchell and Jerry Hallahan made talks on the good of the order.

GOOD FRIEND

To the Poor Irish Fishermen
Was Sir Thomas
Brady.

By the death of Sir Thomas Brady, Inspector of Irish Fisheries, the poor fishermen on the west coast of Ireland have lost a truly kind hearted and most valuable friend. Sir Thomas, who was one of the most kindly of men, made himself intimately acquainted with circumstances and conditions of the fishers and fisheries on every tract of the coast, and he did all that was in his power, both in official capacity and in non-official capacity, to alleviate the hard lot of the fisher folk of the western highlands and islands. Whenever a particular case of distress came under his notice his purse was open to render aid, and, moreover, he appealed to his friends and to the public, if need were, for help for the fishermen or for the widow or for the orphan in distress. Many a poor fisherman who today is comfortable and happy blesses the memory of Sir Thomas Brady for enabling him to face and fight the world once more after his all, his boats and his fishing gear, were lost to him, and after he and his family were left without means of making tomorrow's living. In his official position he had boats and nets supplied from time to time to thousands of fishermen upon terms that were very easy to meet. A good man may now take his place, but as good as Sir Thomas we can hardly hope him to be.

SISTER OF MERCY

Marches Two Hundred Girls
Out of a Burning Convent.

While a fire was blazing in the basement of the Sisters of Mercy Convent at 2834 Wabash avenue, Chicago, last Tuesday night, more than 200 girls, directed by Mother Superior Degales, marched out of the building in the manner in which they had been repeatedly exercised in their "fire drill." Several of the young women collapsed after they had reached the open air, but there was no panic while the students were leaving the building. The firemen arrived just as the last of the girls had left the convent and extinguished the fire after it had caused a damage to the convent of about $5,000.

THE TWO PATS' TRIP.

Pat Donnelly, proprietor of Donnelly's Exchange, and Deputy County Assessor Pat Welsh left Tuesday night for a visit to the World's Fair. All of the friends of these two jolly "Pats" have predicted that they will certainly make things hum when they strike the "Fike."

VOTERS' LAST CHANCE.

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be supplemental registration days. Those who for any cause failed to have their names placed on the list at the regular registration may register on those days in the County Clerk's office, otherwise they can not vote.

ENTERS BREWERY SCHOOL.

Henry W. Diersen, of the Diersen Brothers' brewery, has gone to Chicago to spend a year in the leading brewery school of the country. Young Diersen is a practical brewer, but desires to take the scientific course.

CONVALESCING.

Russell Hardy, the bright little son of William Hardy, the grocer, is convalescing at his home, 1914 Portland avenue, after an illness of five weeks' duration. For a time his condition alarmed his parents and friends of the family.

BISHOP OF HELENA.

The Congregation of the Propaganda issued a brief appointing Rev. John B. Carroll, S. J., of the Holy Family mission, Montana, to be Bishop of Helena, Mont., in succession to the late Right Rev. John B. Brondel. The Holy Family (Indian) mission is under the care of the Jesuit Fathers and contains four flourishing boarding and industrial schools for boys. The Ursuline nuns have charge of the Indian girls' school. There is great rejoicing among the Indians at Father Carroll's elevation to the Bishopric.

THAT ENORMOUS SKIRT PURCHASE,

Made known to you Sunday, continues. Even the brisk selling of all this week had but the slightest effect, because the number was too great. Unquestionably one of the largest deals made by any local concern—but what are quantities when good salable wearables are considered. If you haven't had the opportunity to let us demonstrate the meaning of true value giving, we urge you to come today. Embodied in the large variety are the newest styles, effectively designed and cut to make them hang well.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

A ladies' auxiliary has been formed at Norfolk, Va.

Thirty-three divisions were represented at the last quarterly meeting of the County Board held in Scranton.

The fifth anniversary fair of the Providence Hibernian Knights, opened last week, was a decided success socially and financially.

At a recent meeting of Division 2 at Lewisport a gold-headed cane was presented to the Maine State President, Jeremiah Murphy.

A convention will be held by Providence Hibernians on November 15 to make arrangements for the 1905 St. Patrick's day celebration.

The Western Watchman says the State and local officers of St. Louis are arranging for a vigorous campaign and a big boom may be looked for.

A new Massachusetts division, to include the territory known as New Dorchester, has been established by State President Matthew Cummings.

All those who would spend a really delightful evening should procure tickets and attend the euchre to be given by Division 4 at Hiberniana Hall on Wednesday, November 9.

The recently organized division at Burlington, Vermont, has eighty members, with twenty candidates awaiting initiation. It is expected to increase the membership 50 per cent. during the winter months.

The Hibernians made a splendid showing at the laying of the corner stone of the new St. Kevin's church in St. Louis. Headed by the Knights and County Board they acted as escort to his Grace Archbishop Glennon.

No business of importance was transacted at the meeting of Division 1 last Tuesday. While a number of measures are being discussed it is not likely any will be adopted until after the election and installation of new officers.

Little progress has been made recently in the formation of a Hibernian temperance auxiliary in Rhode Island, which was proposed many years ago, although such organizations are flourishing in Massachusetts and other parts of the country.

The interests of the order are always safe in the hands of John Mulloy and Peter Cusick, and suggestions coming from them should not be treated lightly. They have had long experience and always look for practical results in all undertakings.

The Providence Visitor says the selection of Rev. Joseph A. Powers as county chaplain of the A. O. H. is meeting with the unanimous approval of all members of the order, as he is one of the most conscientious workers in that organization. During the months of November and December he will visit several divisions.

Milwaukee Hibernians, acting upon the suggestion of the national convention, have arranged an excellent programme for the winter, including socials, initiations, mock trials, debates and addresses, musicals and minstrel entertainments, St. Patrick's day celebration and annual communion, closing with an outing June 19. The division now numbers 500 members.

Division 4 of St. Paul gave a grand open meeting at the Elks' hall on Tuesday evening—open in the sense that brothers could bring eligible friends, and ditto ladies, to see how the A. O. H. do things socially, and this very same thing has done a great deal to build up the Ancient Order of Hibernians in St. Paul and Minneapolis; in fact all over the State and the great Northwest. The very latest and best views of Ireland and other scenic countries were presented by Matt Comerford. Miss Jane Holland was the sweet singer of Ireland's most beautiful songs throughout the evening's entertainment.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will have their regular monthly social meeting next Wednesday night, and all members of the order are extended a cordial invitation to be present. A splendid programme is always a feature and these meetings are very enjoyable. Many members of the divisions have expressed themselves as interested in the auxiliary and let it go at that, but it is rumored that at next week's social meeting note will be taken of the number in attendance from each of the four divisions. The ladies are entitled to the encouragement and support of every member of the order, and it is hoped this notice will bring out a large attendance of men.

TRINITY MEETING.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

It is proposed to lengthen Bray esplanade.

A death from small-pox is reported from Belfast.

On Monday a splendid exhibition of Irish industries was opened in Cork.

The Rev. Michael Smyth, of Moygownagh, County Mayo, died on Friday, the 14th inst.

The Athlone branch of the Gaelic League have decided to employ a native Irish speaker as an organizing teacher.

The death of Mrs. M. Purcell (nee Flynn), wife of M. Purcell, D. C., occurred at her residence, Ballinwillig, Lismore.

The Lord Lieutenant has reappointed the Rev. John Pentland Mahaffy to be a Governor and guardian of the National Gallery of Ireland.

The death occurred on Friday of John George McCarthy, Secretary of the Cork County Council, at the age of seventy-four years. He was an authority upon Irish local government.

Details of a case of death from exposure have come to hand from the sub-prefecture of Holy Cross, the victim being an aged man named Patrick Brannock, Carlingford road, Drumcondra.

His Honor Judge Curran was presented with white gloves at the opening of the quarter sessions for the Tullamore division of King's county, there being no criminal business to go before him.

From the report of the committee of the Catholic Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, Cabra, Dublin, which has just been issued, it appears that the number of mutes under instruction at present is 473.

His Honor Judge Adams, K. C., opened the Michaelmas sessions for the city of Limerick and was accompanied by the City High Sheriff, James Flynn, who, in the absence of any criminal business, presented his honor with white gloves.

At the meeting of the Port and Dock Board in Dublin a resolution was unanimously passed declaring that it is desirable that all the port authorities in Ireland should be represented on the Irish Lights Board.

In opening the Cork borough sessions his Honor the Recorder of Cork congratulated the grand jury on the crimelessness of the city, and said the records there at the criminal side of the court would stand in good contrast with those of any other borough in the kingdom.

Much regret is expressed in Mullingar and throughout the counties of Meath and Westmeath at the death of Sister Moore (in religion Sister Mary Francis), who passed away at Loretto Convent, Mullingar. The deceased lady was a daughter of Martin Moore, of Athboy.

The Dublin Government Board have written to the Belfast corporation sanctioning the loan of $25,000 for the purpose of purchasing the premises and lands known as the "Abbey." The new building will be used as an auxiliary workhouse, principally for the caring of the sick and infirm. The payment of the loan has been spread over a period of fifty years.

The Irish people are fully alive to the danger with which they are threatened by the plot now on foot to introduce secularism into the national schools of the country. Moreover, they are determined that it shall not succeed. Many representative bodies voicing the opinions of those who elected them have passed resolutions denouncing the action of those who are hatching a scheme by which they hope to take the management of the schools from the clergy. It may be safely assumed that the views of those freely elected bodies who have taken no action as yet are just as strongly opposed to the introduction of a Godless system of education among the children of Ireland.
